What's common to RAJINIKANTH and the DUCHESS OF CORNWALL?

ENGLAND's second most powerful lady, Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall, will be staying in Soukya Holistic Health Centre, Whitefield. She will be residing at the rejuvenation centre through the weekend, prior to the inauguration of the Commonwealth Games in Delhi, where she will join husband Prince Charles.

Dr Issac Mathai, who runs the award-winning wellness centre, says, "Prince Charles is a great supporter of integrated medicine. In fact, his foundation aims at bringing the Western and Eastern practices together. I'm involved with his foundation as well, which runs a college in UK."

Talking about Camilla's visit, Dr Mathai says, "It is but natural that there would be a team here for reece prior to a VVIP's visit. She's coming to India for a break and she's chosen our place for personal reasons. She will be staying in the presidential suite and we will do our best to ensure that her visit remains away from all prying eyes. As any VVIP visit would require, there will be ample security for the Duchess's visit."

The wellness centre is famous for a whole lot of packages, which includes rejuvenation and anti-aging packages that are very popular with international guests. Quiz Dr Mathai if the visit has created buzz amongst the staff and he brushes it off saying, "We will carry on with our business as usual. We're used to big names staying with us. Desmond Tutu stayed at our place two years ago. Even Rajinikanth stays with us often, sometimes for as long as two weeks. It's more believable that Rajinikanth would evoke fanfare. But, even then, the staff went on with their business as usual and treated him as just another guest residing on our campus," signs off Dr Mathai.

Whatever it takes

When After Hrs contacted Bangalore city police commissioner Shankar Bidari, he said, "I'm yet to receive intimation about the exact details of her visit. But, we will be providing her with security as per the Government of India directives."
